THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

It is a pleasure to extend greetings and warmest best wishes to the many friends of Langston University.

In this Diamond Anniversary edition of the Langston University Yearbook, we are proud to share with you the progress of this great institution.

As we move to a new level of excellence, we are ever mindful that greatness does not come easily or cheaply. We must increase our efforts as we seek to increase our financial support. When we have achieved these imperatives, we will find on this campus a spirit so strong that it will sustain Langston University for another 75 years of service to this state and nation.

This past year has been one of marked achievements for the Beta Kappa Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Inc. on both the national and local levels. During the year the chapter made various trips throughout Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana in an effort to promote unity and brotherhood among the neighboring chapters.

Twenty-seven members were initiated into the fraternity this year and have proven very able brothers. By giving of their time graciously and incorporating many of their new and youthful ideas in such principles as scholarship, chapter projects, and leadership, the chapter has made many improvements. Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Inc. is the largest fraternity on campus, its members participating and holds leading position on the Langston Campus; this year brothers participated in more activities than ever before. Also many of the brothers participated in varsity baseball and football.

In addition, the Alpha Angels a newly founded organization, this year have added a new dimension to the Beta Kappa Chapter by assisting the chapter in completion of its many projects.

Vice Pres. Larry Smith, Pres. Harding Faulk, Ronald Reynolds and Bro. Atchinson seem to be enjoying themselves.

At the Annual Neophyte Banquet, held at the Parker House, Brothers give their undivided attention to the meal; while in the background Brother Fontenot gives the power sign.

LAMBDA ALPHA CHAPTER

The pledge group of Zeta Phi Beta: Ramona Wyatt, Elaine Tomplin leads the line during homecoming.

In 1920, the brothers of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity decided that instead of adopting a sister organization, they would assist in the organization of a new sorority to be their true, eternal, and universal sisters. After board meeting, recommendations and voting procedures, Mr. Charles Robert Samuel Taylor discussed the idea with Miss Arizona Clever, who later met with four other young women. They decided to organize a sister sorority; thereby, becoming the founders of ZETA PHI BETA.

Their idea was a sorority which they hoped would reach college women in all parts of the world, who were sorority-minded and who desired to affiliate with a group that had for its objectives the idea of SERVICE, SCHOLARSHIP, and SISTERHOOD, and for its ideal—"FINER WOMANHOOD."

HISTORY

LANGSTON UNIVERSITY was established on March 12, 1897, by the Territorial Legislature. Though the institution was chartered as the Colored Agricultural and Normal University, it has always been popularly known as Langston University. The name of the institution was taken from John Mercer Langston, Reconstruction Congressman from Virginia, Vice President of Howard University in Washington, D. C. and President of Virginia State College at Petersburg. In 1941, the Oklahoma Legislature officially changed the name to Langston University. The first president was Dr. Inman E. Page, a graduate of Brown University, who came to Langston from the presidency of Lincoln Institute (now Lincoln University) in Jefferson City, Missouri. Dr. Page opened the doors of Langston University in a Presbyterian Church in the Village of Langston and set about to build a school with a beginning budget of $5,000. During his seventeen-year tenure, he struggled with the great task of developing an effective organization. Following Dr. Page, I. B. McCutcheon and R. E. Bullitt filled the office for brief periods. In 1916, Dr. J. M. Marquess, a graduate of Dartmouth University, was elected to the presidency. During his tenure, the institution experienced an expansion of its physical plant and properties. Dr. I. W. Young, a graduate of New Orleans University, served two separate terms as president, having been appointed in 1923, following a period of six years during which time the institution operated as a Norman School. In 1927, Z. T. Hubert, a graduate of Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia, and the Massachusetts Agricultural College became president, coming from the presidency of Jackson College in Mississippi. Dr. J. W. Sanford, a graduate of Prairie View State College and the Kansas State Teachers College, came to the institution's presidency in 1935. Dr. Sanford's administration saw one of the institution's greatest periods of growth. With the growing prestige of the college, through the attraction of highly-trained faculty and expanded services, came a greatly increased student enrollment. In 1938, Dr. G. L. Harrison, a graduate of Howard University and the Ohio State University, came to the presidency. Dr. Harrison's tenure of 20 years saw the accreditation of the institution by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools; national recognition of the faculty for their contributions to scholarly production and research; substantial increases in faculty salaries; enlargement of the physical plant; and the stabilization of the Office of President. Serving the University as its tenth president was the first Langston graduate to be elevated to the post. Dr. William H. Hale. Dr. Hale, who holds degrees from the University of Wisconsin and the University of Chicago, was elected president in 1960, coming from a twelve-year professorship at Clark College in Atlanta, Georgia. Under his administration, a progressive ten-year program of improvement and expansion in the physical plant as well as upgrading the quality of academic programs was initiated. Dr. William E. Sims, graduate of Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Missouri, and Colorado State College (now the University of Northern Colorado) became the eleventh president of Langston University on January 10, 1970. President Sims came to the college in 1953 as Instructor of Music and Band Director. He was subsequently appointed Professor of Music and then Chairman of the Department of Music. In 1965, Dr. Sims was selected as Dean of Academic Affairs and served in that position until appointed President.

President Sims has manifested during the short time he has been in office that he has the character, the courage and the wisdom to lead the institution to a clearer view of its mission and purpose. For example, Langston University was re-examined its role as a land-grant college, an opportunity college, open to all who can profit from higher education. Also, under Dr. Sims' administration, the University has improved the quality of the faculty; developed a sophisticated research program; created a new and relevant approach to learning via the Five College Curriculum Innovative Thrust Program; activated and developed a viable extension program; provided for Langston students an innovation in a cooperative education program, and improved the physical appearance of the institution. As Langston prepares for the next seventy-five years, the present administration has revitalized its efforts to continue to fashion an atmosphere suitable for growth and development—a climate conducive to an exchange of intellectual ideas. Langston University can then one day reign as the best opportunity college in the land.

Phyllis Wheatley Girl's dormitory, which was named after the famous Black poet, was among the earlier dorms in the early 1900's.

TODAY

Young Hall, a dormitory for women is named after Mrs. Bessie L. Young (pictured below). Mrs. Young has given many years of counseling to Langston's young women.

“Dear Langston”

Words by Samuel Sadler

Music by E.J. Work

First Verse

High on a throne with royal mien, Our Hope and our mother stand. All gaze with pride upon the scene High o'er the silv'ry strand; All gaze with pride upon the scene Where our hope and our mother stand.

Chorus

Dear Langston, Dear Langston Thy sons and daughters brave Will strive on with courage
Their honored shrine to save. With a “Sis!
Boom! Bah! And a Hip! Hurrah!” With a “Hip-hur-rah!” We rally to Langston, Dear
Langston, to thee.

Second Verse

If ever man should dare bring low Thy blazoned banner high, We'll battle with the vicious foe And for thy honor die. We'll strive and overcome the foe, Or for thy honor die.
