MRS. B. L. YOUNG

Mrs. Young talks things over with her girls.

Dedication

Members of the Lion Staff are indeed happy and pleased to dedicate the 1966 edition of the yearbook, "The Lion", to Mrs. B. L. Young.

"Mother Young", as she is affectionately called, has endeared herself to many Langstonites through the years.

Mrs. Young joined the Langston University staff in 1938 and has served the institution faithfully in several capacities. She presently serves as House Mother in the recently renovated Sanford Hall Annex.

Langston University Possesses

The Modern Language Laboratory

Unique Instructional Programs

Students receive instruction in Mathematics through the use of an Electrowriter in the Tele-lecture program.

State public school teachers assembled at the University for a six-week summer institute on the problems of school desegregation

A unique program for pre-school children was provided through the University's Head Start Program.

Participants in Educational Activities

In observance of American Education Week

A Kappa Delta Pi panel discussion.

Faculty Institute 1966

Dr. Dollie Walker of the U.S. Office of Education was guest lecturer for the faculty institute. Dr. Walker addressed the group on "New Opportunities in Education."

Special Guest consultant for the institute was Dr. Archie R. Ayers of The U.S. Office of Education. Dr. Ayers (standing) is shown with President Hale and Dr. Louise Stephens.

The general theme for the 1966 Faculty Institute was "Special Plans and Projects for the Improvement of Education."

Guest Lecturers and Speakers

Dr. E. W. James, Dean of Instruction at East Central, spoke for the Honors Convocation.

Guest speaker for the Leadership convocation was Dr. David Morgan of Dow Chemical.

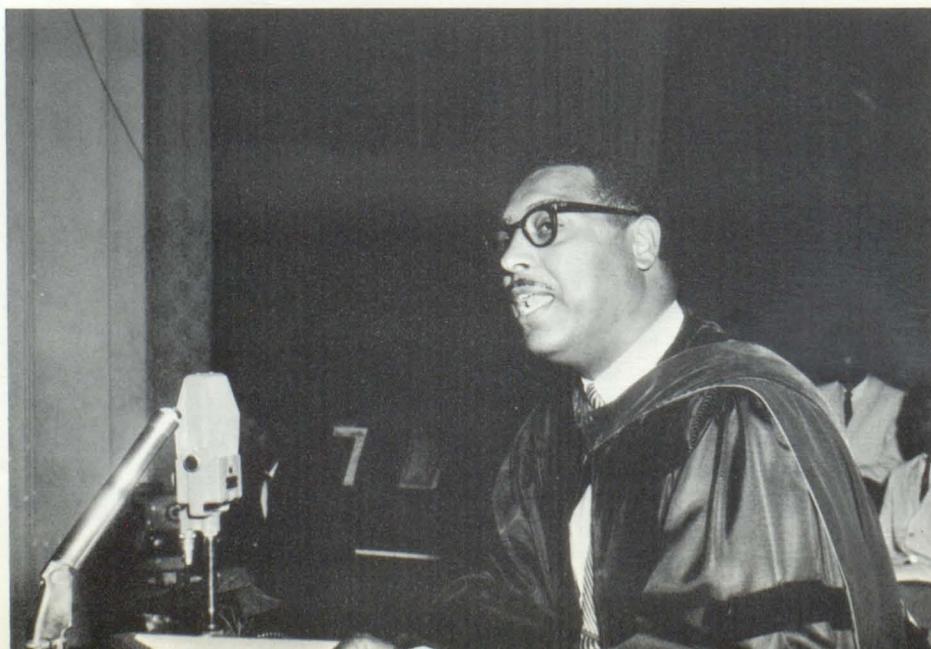

Dr. Deborah Wolfe, of the U.S. Office of Education, was guest Consultant for the University's Career Day.

Mr. Ross J. McLennan served as special Assembly speaker. Mr. McLennan is Executive Secretary for the Sooner Alcohol-Narcotics Education Society.

Dr. Samuel Proctor was speaker for the annual commencement convocation. Dr. Proctor is General Director of Public Interpretation of the National Council of Churches of Christ.

Guest Artists

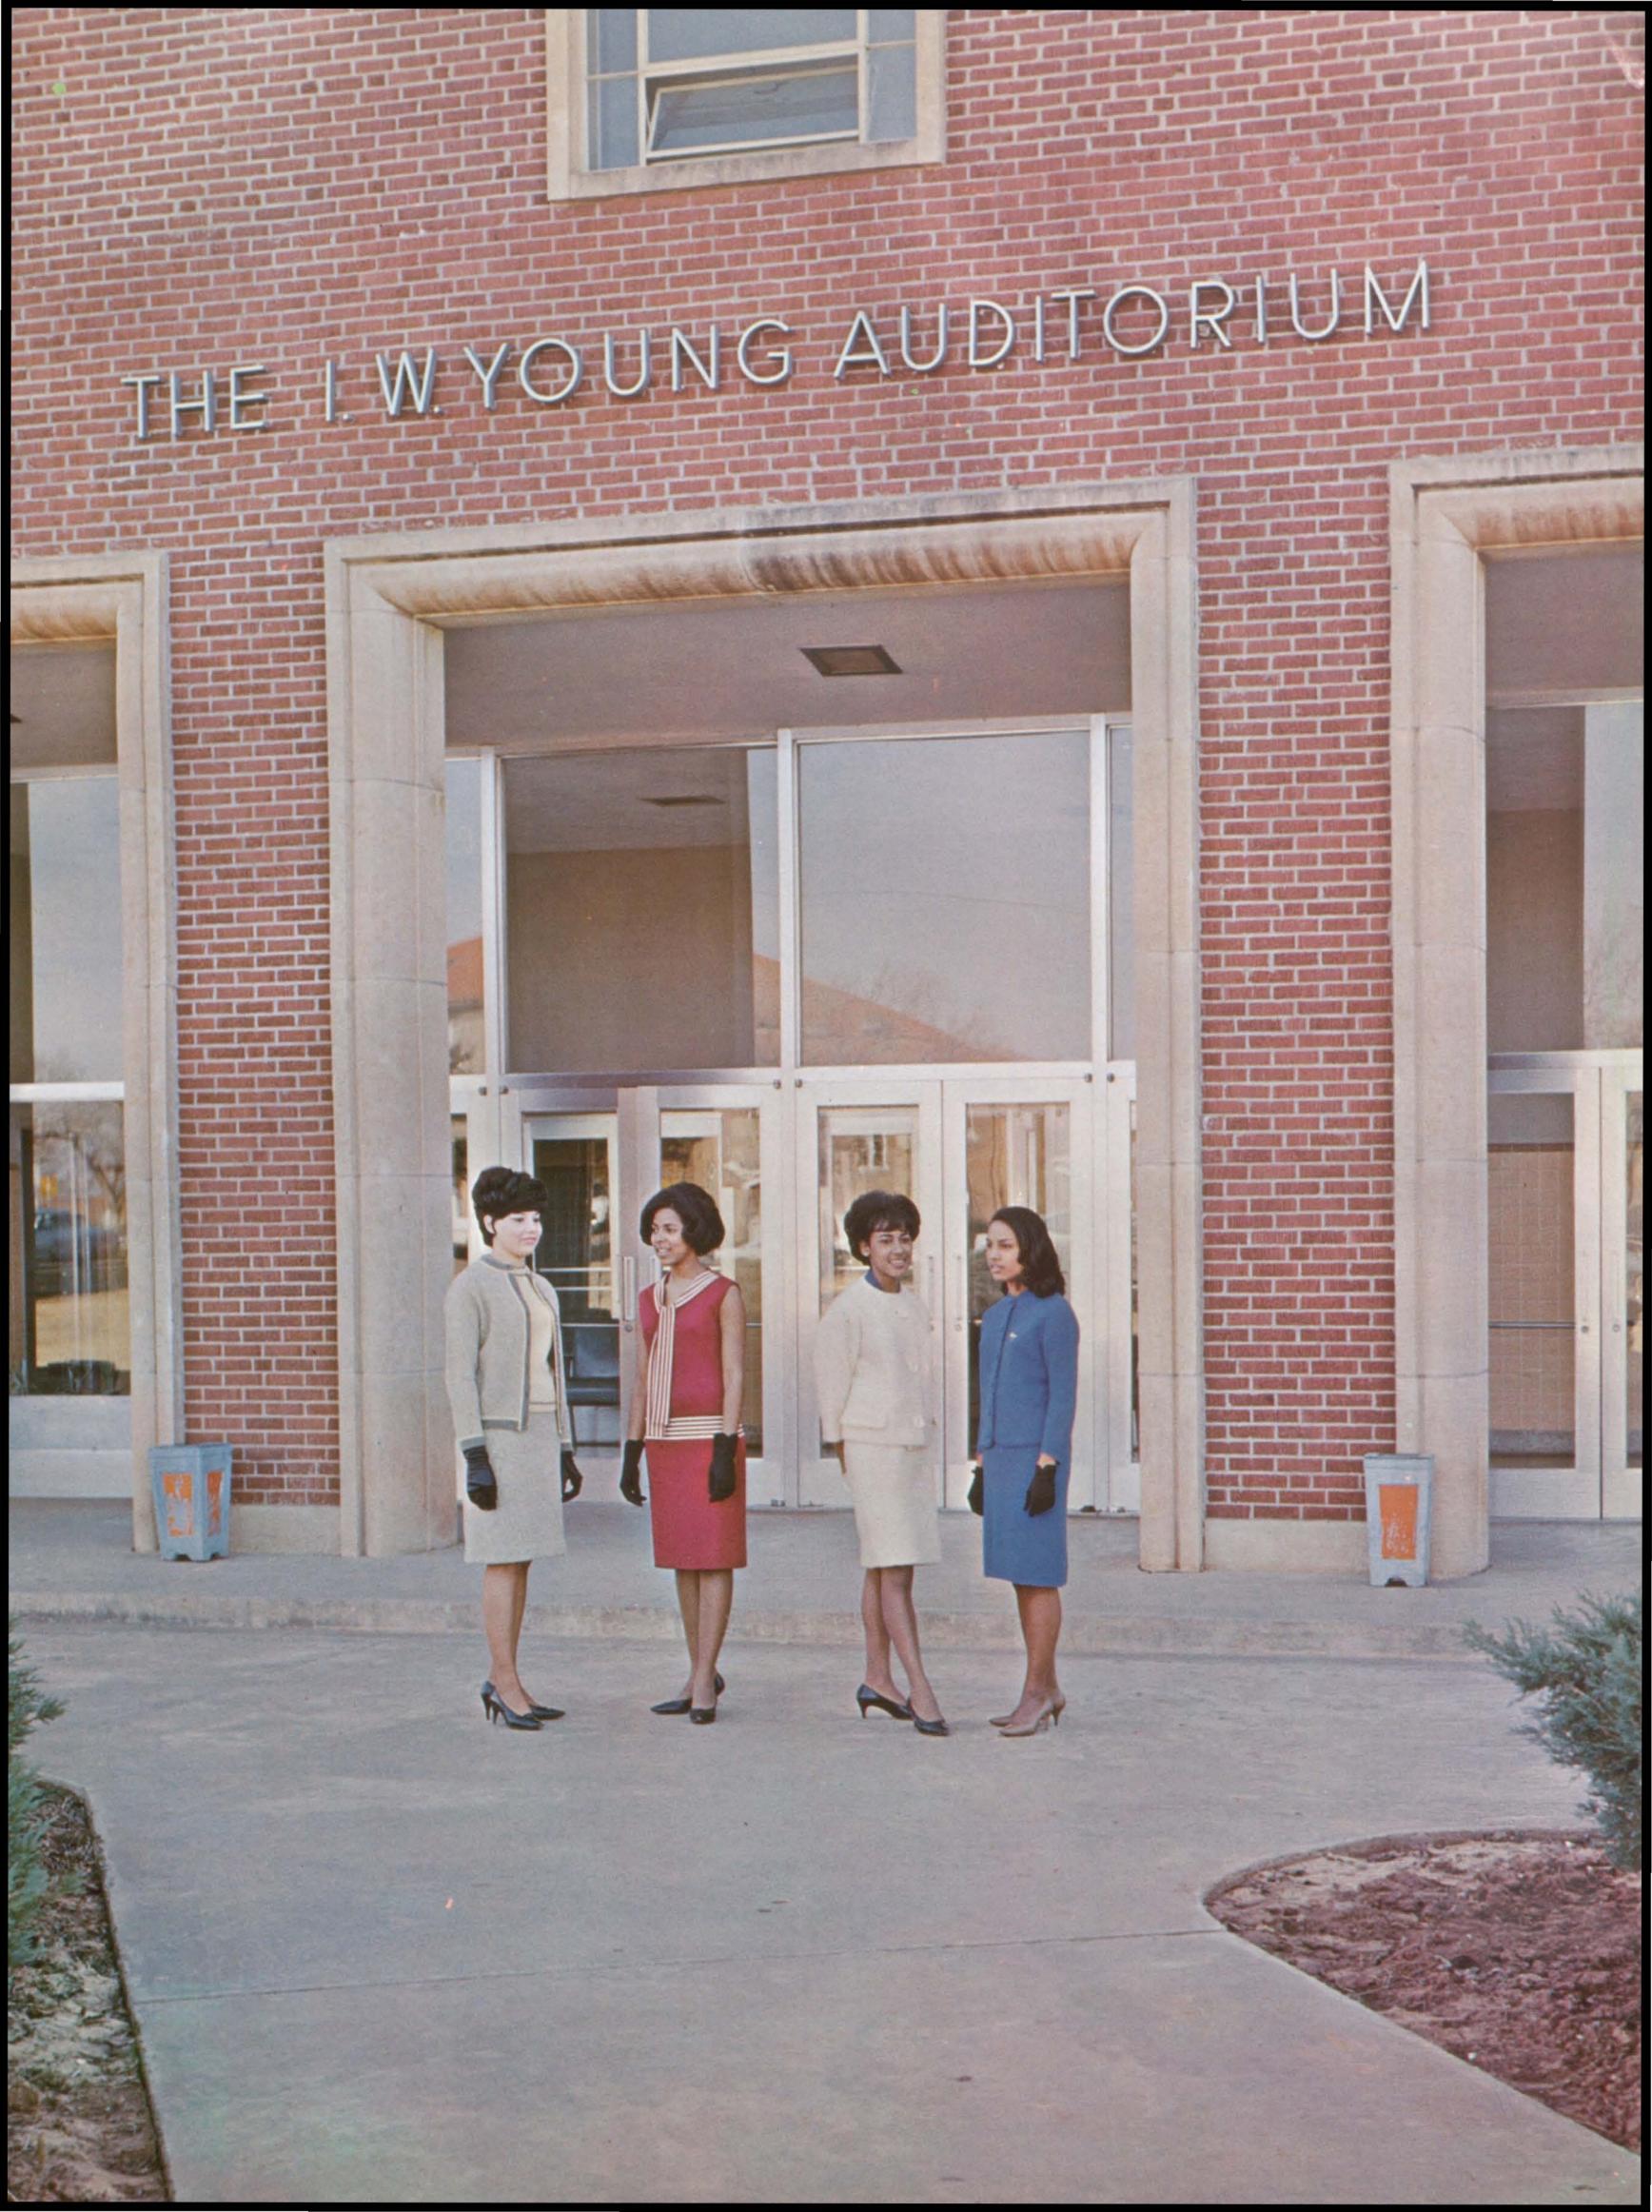

Anna Marly (right), guitarist—composer, is pictured during a recital which received a tremendous ovation from faculty and students.

The internationally famous Ink Spots (below) thrilled and captivated their audience during their appearance on campus. Such old favorites as: "If I Didn't Care", "My Prayer", and "Do I Worry?" created a bit of nostalgia in the hearts of the more "mature" faculty personnel.
