The-Langston Letter

PUBLIC RELATIONS DEPT.

Langston, Oklahoma

March 17 - 24, 1972

Langston University's Founders Week was an unqualified success, not only because we were celebrating our 75th birthday, but because we touched the minds and lives of so many people across this state and nation and they responded in a very positive way to the call of the institution we all love. We received the full cooperation of the news media and we were able to have at least two full hours of prime time on television. Radio also covered the various activities of Founders Week. I think we will all agree that we have set the stage for the next seventy-five years in the life of Langston University.
