Car Tag Crackdown Promoted by Commission. Leo Russell, chief of the Oklahoma Tax Commission's enforcement division, has promised fewer out-of-state license tags on Oklahoma cars in 1969. Commission Chairman Clarence DeWees promised Oklahoma will continue to honor reciprocal agreements with other states that allow tuition-paying students to use their home state's tags, but "certain inequities" will be eliminated. Any student who lists his residence as Oklahoma and drives a car with an out-of-state tag is subject to impounding. All state college and university campuses will be closely checked. DeWees added that if the spouse of an out-of-state student is regularly employed in Oklahoma for more than 20 hours per week, the family auto must be registered and licensed in this state.
